

Dear Parent or Guardian,

Wow! This year has flown by! I would just like to take the time to say thanks again for all of the wonderful support this year. I truly enjoyed working with all of you and your precious children. I wish all of your children the best, and hope they realize that they will always hold a special place in my heart!

Summer is the season that all of us like to have time to rest and relax. How better to relax than with a great book or fun and exciting summer explorations! This journal is your child's personal diary. It is their Summer Memoir!

The journal begins with informational pages for parents and ideas for your child. It includes...

- Reading Log
Have your child keep track of all of his/her summer reading. This will be used to share with his/her peers in first grade!
- Summer Fun Checklist
Find many cool activities and ideas for the summer. Keep track of all you do!
- Parent Strategy Page
Use this page when assisting with or reading to your child.
- Book List and Web Sites Page
This list includes a wide variety of books. Take it along to the library to find wonderful summer reading choices. In addition, the web sites include many activity ideas and parent tips!
- Library information
Use this information to get your child involved with all the library has to offer. Library card applications are available free at the library!
- Top Ten Reasons to Keep Kids Learning in the Summer

I hope this Summer Memoir Journal will keep you and your child excited about learning. What a great way to keep developing those skills he/she has worked so hard on all year long! These journals will be something that your child will bring to his/her first grade classroom in the fall. Your child will use this as a wonderful way to reconnect with friends and reminisce about the summer!

Working with your child on his/her summer journal will be a wonderful family experience and will offer your child so much encouragement and support. Have an awesome summer break!

(If you are reading this letter online, simply purchase your child a notebook to use as a journal.)

Summer Fun Checklist

Keep a journal of your summer days. Some ideas are: pets, trips, friends, one thing you did today.
Write letters to family and friends.
Draw pictures with shapes and label your diagram (circle, square, triangle, rectangle, etc.)
Visit the public library (be sure to take the attached application for a library card).
Check out books and books on tape.
Write a sentence (This is an apple.) and add details (This is a big red apple.).
Write words in the sand at the beach or use shaving cream and a cookie tray at home.
Visit a museum or zoo and write about what you see.
Cut out familiar words and/or word wall words from magazines or newspapers and make a collage.
Make a grocery list, help grocery shop by comparing prices and look for rhyming words (milk - silk).
Practice counting money and trade 5 pennies for a nickel and 2 nickels for a dime, etc.
Keep counting by 5's and 10's past 100.
Count by 2's to 30.
Graph the weather for the month of July on your family's calendar or make your own.
Look for familiar words on billboards and other signs around town.
Look for insects. Draw and write about the insects you find.
Clap the words to a sentence (I see a green ball). Five words = five claps.
Read, Read, Read! Look at the attached book list for some ideas. After reading a book, write the title on the attached book log and your recommendation.
Parents, don't forget to ask your child questions about the stories such as: who was the story about (characters), what was the problem/solution, what is something they learned, what happened at the beginning, middle, and end, etc.

Top Ten Reasons to Keep Kids Learning in Summer

1. Education is the key to achievement and success.
2. Parents who are actively involved in their children's learning at home help their children become more successful learners.
3. Stimulating children's brain development all summer brings big benefits in the fall.
4. The average student forgets a substantial number of reading and math skills learned during the school year.
5. Losses are greater among lower-income students who cannot attend summer enrichment programs, travel or take advantage of structured learning opportunities.
6. Much of the achievement gap between advantaged and less advantaged students occurs in the summer months.
7. Children who lose ground over the summer have a difficult time "catching up" during the following school year.
8. Time spent on "re-learning" substantially reduces the valuable classroom time needed to master new skills and subjects.
9. Steady improvement throughout the year means that children will meet the high education standards supported by Michigan's State Board of Education and will assure students have the educational foundation needed to succeed in school and life.
10. Summer is an ideal time for families to provide the time, learning experiences and practice to reinforce learning.
